

FATHER-SON BASKETBALL LEAGUE -- Conducted by Willis and Terry Ringen of Beattie, KS, who took the 1974-75 teams and played a 17-game schedule (each team playing the others once) plus playoffs...Trades were made to keep pace with the real-life 1975-76 transactions, thus Karen Abdul-Jabbar played with Los Angeles; Brian Winters and Elmore Smith with Milwaukee...Golden State finished a lowly fifth in the Pacific Division and failed to qualify for the playoffs...Boston and L.A. clashed in the Finals, with the Lakers winning a two-of-three game playoff...Boston ran off a 16-1 regular-season record, losing only to Cleveland, 116-110...Bob Lanier of the Pistons, who led the league in scoring with a 33.2 average, was chosen MVP, with Fred Brown (26.8) of last-place Seattle a close runnerup.

Standings, playoffs and scoring leaders:

Midwest	Won-Lost	Pacific	Won-Lost	Atlantic	Won-Lost
Chicago	9-8	Los Angeles	14-3	Boston	16-1
Kansas City	8-9	Portland	9-8	Philadelphia	11-6
Milwaukee	7-10	Phoenix	8-9	Buffalo	11-6
Detroit	5-12	Golden State	8-9	New York	8-9
		Seattle	7-10
Central	Won-Lost
Houston	9-8
* Cleveland	9-8

* Cleveland won playoff game for title, 109-98.

Central con't	Won-Lost
Washington	7-10
New Orleans	4-13
Atlanta	4-13

Playoffs:

Los Angeles d. Chicago, 114-106 (OT)
 Boston d. Cleveland, 96-87

Finals:

Los Angeles d. Boston, 104-115, 122-109, 122-113

Scoring Leaders

Lanier	33.2	Jabbar	28.3	D. Snyder	25.2
McAdoo	33.1	Archibald	27.6	Cowens	24.6
Barry	29.9	F. Brown	26.8	Dandridge	24.4
				Tomjanovich	24.0

*****